What about switching to a plant-based casing?

In our constant quest for new food solutions, and thanks to our unique and competitive know-how, we work to establish new innovative and technological processes on a daily basis.

So as to best meet food safety and manufacturing cost optimisation requirements, we have been committed to the development of an innovative coextrusion process for a 100% plant-based casing since the 2000s. This casing can be used for various food products, such as sausages. Sonjal Casing® also acts as a source of innovation for new applications, such as vegetarian sausages.
